Task analysis Homodeus

Project: A website for Erion

Trigger	Desired Outcome	Tasks
Client has no place to show his art	Client has a website to show it	-project group creates a project plan -project group takes interviews from the client and users -project group develops website -project group delivers website
Project group does not have the art that the client has created	The art is displayed in the website	-group emails to client to ask for the art -group downloads the art -additionally the group makes the sizes of the images less bigger -the art gets implemented in the website
The website has no buy option	The website has a buy option	-adding the price to the painting -adding a more detailed description -adding a cart -adding backend to the cart
The content of the website is too stacked	The website has a filter system	-doing online research how to create a filter system using js -prototyping the system in figma -creating the system -testing the system
Client has no clue how to add add more content he made	Client can add or edit his content	-doing research on json -giving client crash course about the json file